OFFICIAL WITHDRAWAL FROM DOCTOR OF PHARMACY PROGRAM

The College of Pharmacy wants students to be successful and explore options to overcoming barriers to academic success, therefore consultation with a student advisor or the director of student services is recommended prior to students officially withdrawing from the program.

Students who withdraw from the Doctor of Pharmacy program are still responsible for outstanding financial obligations to the University of Minnesota.

Once a student submits this form, if the student seeks readmission, the student will be required to re-apply for admission through the standard admissions process.

Students must meet the Associate Dean for Student & Professional Affairs (Dr. Randy Seifert - rseifert@d.umn.edu) prior to withdrawing from the program for an exit interview.
